About Your Home

By Frances Dell

Summer will be with us before you know it. Last summer one of our leading medical journals carried an editorial entitled "The Drowning Season." It told us that 6,500 people die from drowning in our country each year. As a homemaker it is your responsibility to see that each member of your family learns how to swim.

You will not become an expert swimmer by taking a few lessons, but it will be worth a great deal to you. One very important thing it will do is to remove your fear of the water if you are now a non-swimmer.

It is possible to stay afloat even for rather long periods without performing a single conventional stroke. The "dog paddle" has saved many lives and this will serve you to rest while in the water with support of the body weight. Just moving your hands and feet enough to keep your head above the surface is effective. With this method it is possible to stay afloat for a long period of time with little effort.

Those who are passable swimmers need to be reminded that their greatest enemy while bathing is panic. A sudden cramp is a frightening thing. When a cramp occurs, it is a good idea to try to massage the affected area. A cramp most often hits a leg or foot. Stay afloat by means of a sort of "dog paddle" and proceed slowly to the shore.

You can guard against muscle cramps by avoiding going too rapidly into cold water, by not swimming too soon after a meal or until you are cooled off after being overheated.

Even if you are an accomplished swimmer, long distance swimming without an accompanying boat is always dangerous. Swimming without an accompanying partner is taking a chance.

Never dive without being sure of the depth of the water.

Homemakers Items

Recipes from Old Virginia, the State Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs' choice collection of old recipes from women throughout Virginia, is still a best seller.

Miss Janet Cameron, nutritionist at VPI, says since the Federation cookbook was first printed in 1947, 34,000 copies have been printed and it is still a best seller throughout the country. It has been sent to nearly every state and many foreign countries.

The original purpose of the cookbook was to preserve all of the old recipes passed down through generations. In many cases they were modernized for present-day measurements and temperatures. Many home demonstration clubs have sold the book as a money-making venture.

The recipes were submitted by thousands of women in the Federation and were tested by a committee from the Federation. Mrs. Esther Nickolson, Norfolk, was chairman of the committee which planned and folowed through on the cookbook.

A series of forums at which the adult driver education program planned by the Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs will be explained, is underway.

Mrs. Katherine Goode Robinson, Lynchburg, state safety goal chairman for the Federation, says speakers will include representatives from the State Board o Education, the state police, and the National Safety Council.

The forums will be held: February 8, county courthouse, Williamsburg. February 9, at Baptist Church, Fredericksburg; February 10, Methodist Church, Warrenton; February 15, First Baptist Church, Charlottesville, and February 16, county building, Staunton.

DEATH OF INFANT

Brenda Kaye Tuck, infant daughter of Shirley Davis and Otey Lee Tuck, of Lynchburg, died last night in Lynchburg General Hospital. In addition to her parents, she is survived by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis, of Appomattox, maternal grandparents, and Mr. and Mrs. Otey Tuck, of Lynchburg, paternal grandparents.

Funeral services will be held at the grave Friday at 11 A. M., in Liberty Cemetery, Appomattox. Dr. C. A. Collins, Jr., will officiate.

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

The Case of the Terrified Typist by Erle Stanley Gardner.

The day began quite like any other, except for the new typist in Mason's office. She seemed nervous, even frightened, and when suddenly vanished she did so without a trace—except for a couple of diamonds under her desk with chewing gum and a bunch of highly romantic love letters dumped in a waste basket. Three days later Mason was engaged to defend a man for murder. It's a flamboyant case and a unique experience for everyone . . from Mason to readers to chance.

Other mysteries by Gardner in the County Library are: Case of the Goldd igger's Purse; Case of the Fan-Dancer's Horse; The D. A. Breaks a Seal; Case of the Lazy Lover; and The D. A. Calls It Murder.

DOESN'T WANT BEQUEST

Providence, R. I. — Meet a man who has enough money and doesn't want the $100,000 left him by his late sister, Miss Clara H. Jencken! Earl S. Jenckes, of Wyomissing, Pa., turned down the inheritance because he has enough money without it, and the money will go to Jenckes' two children, George A. Jenckes and Mrs. Louise Jay, both of Wyomissing.

News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

I liked this one:

The family gathered about for Father to open his Father's Day gifts. Everyone had remembered him, but finally all the gifts were opened, and then Junior, age five, spoke up and said: "What I want to know is, if Father gets presents every Father's Day, and Mother gets presents every Mother's Day, why don't I get presents every SUNday?"

World Day of Prayer will be observed at the local Presbyterian Church on Friday morning, February 17, at 10:30. Local churches will participate in this service.

The Afternoon Circle of The Women of Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church will meet on Tuesday at 3:00 o'clock, with Mrs. C. F. James. The Evening Circle will meet Wednesday at 8:00 o'clock with Mrs. Bailey Wilkins.

Mrs. C. G. O'Brien is attending a Grand Representative Meeting of The Order of Eastern Star in Richmond today at the John Marshall Hotel.

Pvt. James Doss, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Doss, of Akron, Ohio, is now serving his second year with the Army, at Ft. Benning, Ga. He is attached to a Headquarters and Service Battery in the Field Artillery. Doss graduated from South High School in 1951 and attended the University of Akron. C. C. Doss is a native of Appomattox, and brother of G. Lewis Doss.

The Wesleyan Service Guild met Monday evening with Mrs. K. E. Coleman. Mrs. Cleo Coleman continued teaching of the book, An Introduction to the Five Spiritual Classics.

Suppose the chief topic around town this week, is to get up with the local group just returned from a delightful cruise in Caribbean waters and hear first hand of their adventures. The group included Dr. and Mrs. H. Y. Spencer and daughter, Mary Yancey; Mrs. R. M. Mann and Mr. and Mrs. C. Lewis McDearmon. We have not yet heard the full report. But we did get several postal cards while they were gone: one from Dr. Spencer, in which he wrote that he looked all over Haiti and was not able to buy a copy of The Times-Virginian. Thanks, Doc, and next time you go on a big trip, we will make the necessary arrangements to have home-town news awaiting you at every port of call.

Picked up a cute item the other day in a Southern restaurant. It was an absorbent paper circular pad that fitted between the cup and saucer to absorb the "overflow" of coffee, so that the cup is always dry on the bottom. Cheap little thing, but serves a useful purpose, I thought.

Father Darkelaf is a modest sort of guy. Says does not like to bragg, as he knows all too well that such people are made fun of. But, on the sly, I am slipping in this item: so help us, The Times-Virginian now has TWO Linotype machines! A Linotype machine is the tremendous gadget that "writes on metal" so that the copy we send in can be put on metal "slugs" and then made into the pages from which a newspaper is printed. Maybe that is the wrong explanation —better come and see one working! Anyway, we are proud that our shop now has two of these wonderful machines. Just wanted to take credit for having put all our money back into equipment to bring you a bigger and better paper, and to say that now we can turn out more work than ever and to invite you to "bring us your business!"

Congratualtions to the Bunny Hop Dance Club for their contribution to the March of Dimes.

The club, consisting of pupils of first grade through fifth grade, with about 65 present, had a dance at the American Legion Hall last Friday night, which resulted in a donation of $7.46 to the fund.
